GEN. STOESSEL INTERVIEWED.

Mr. Hulme Beaman, who was quite rocently in Cairo for a couple of days, succeeded in getting a long and most interesting interview with Guneral Stoessel during the Ganal passage of the "dustralien,—a 'scoop' for the "Standard," and a matter of great interest to the public, which is so thoroughly incapable of giving or sticking to an opinion, that the statements of a correspondent who visited Port Arbur some days after the surrender, when I limb abells had ceased to fall, had begun to be accepted as google. There seems to have been great friction between the Army and Navy, but the accessations of gross incapacity and cowardice are hard to substantiate against the Japanese evidence of the skill and substrantess.
